

Team Jaron

Jaron's story: The University of Georgia Redcoat Marching Band is a storied program in the SEC. This year Jaron Lehman, a member of the mellophone section, was diagnosed with cancer. Jaron has decided that he won't let cancer pull him away from the organization and the activity that he loves the most, the marching band. While fighting his cancer he hopes to inspire others to never give up on and to push through any obstacle that comes in your way. Jaron continues to march in the band even while going through his treatments.

Timeline: 6-8weeks, filming on November 12th at UGA vs Auburn game

Blue Line Media seeks partnerships to support the creation of mini-documentaries on the collegiate marching band world through it's entity, CollegeMarching.com. These documentaries will tell the amazing and heart-warming stories that are routinely ignored by college football networks.

Funding Opportunities:

Gold Partner ($2500) – Opening credit with logo in film, bio and website link placement in CollegeMarching.com story about the film, stand-alone article about partner published on CollegeMarching.com & digital copy of the film to be used as you please.

Silver Partner ($1,500) – Scrolling thank you in film, bio and website link placement in CollegeMarching.com story about the film & stand-alone article about partner published on CollegeMarching.com

Bronze Partner ($500) – Scrolling thank you in film, website link placement in CollegeMarching.com story about the film

Contact: Ed Sullivan ed@sullivation.com 610-745-6040